

First impressions don't get a second chance

New ProClick special placement display for professional product presentation at the POS

Market research studies on mobile working show that 71% of tradesmen like to carry tools and consumables on their belt.

In response to this trend in the trades, BS Systems GmbH & Co. KG has developed ProClick, a tool belt system that convinces with intuitive operation, safety and ergonomics at the workplace. Thanks to its compatibility with the L-BOXX system as well as the connection to Sortimo van racking systems, it offers real added value to the end consumer.

First impressions don't get a second chance. A clear and appealing presentation on site is a basic condition for good sales. Up to 80% of all purchasing decisions are made spontaneously at the point of sale. To support retailers in this respect, the entire ProClick range has been equipped with new sales packaging.

To make it easy for interested retailers to get started, a pre-equipped ready-to-use special placement display with the high-runners of the product range was developed. Appealing and professional product presentation therefore goes hand in hand with a low barrier to entry.

A little additional highlight: The integrated test box, with which users can put the connection of the belt pouches to the test. It sparks interest and encourages active testing.
